

Robbie, building twice as fast at half-strength

“Say goodbye to back pain and hello to fun during construction”

We don't have to tell you how physically stressful a construction site can be. Meet Robbie, the innovative cobot. A mechanical work tool specifically designed to lift large glue blocks in a fast, safe and ergonomically sound way that also guides them to the right place.

In combination with the extra-large ceramic glue blocks from Dumoulin Bricks, you can achieve a very high yield on site.

High efficiency

Process with the same number of operations up to 0.5 m² and increase your construction speed.

One person at work

Two hands, that's all it takes to operate this compact cobot. Improve efficiency and productivity on site.

No physical burden

Say goodbye to hard labor. Handle up to 2 XL adhesive blocks simultaneously without the least physical strain.

Easily movable

Thanks to its compact dimensions, Robbie is very easy to move.

Safe and CE approved

The cobot is equipped with a reliable security mechanism. As a result, glue blocks cannot fall and overloading won't be possible.

For both small and large construction sites

Thanks to its compact, flexible design and simple operation, Robbie can be used for both small and large construction projects.

No preliminary training required

Everything is self-explanatory. You do not need an internal study or placement plans on site to start working with the cobot.

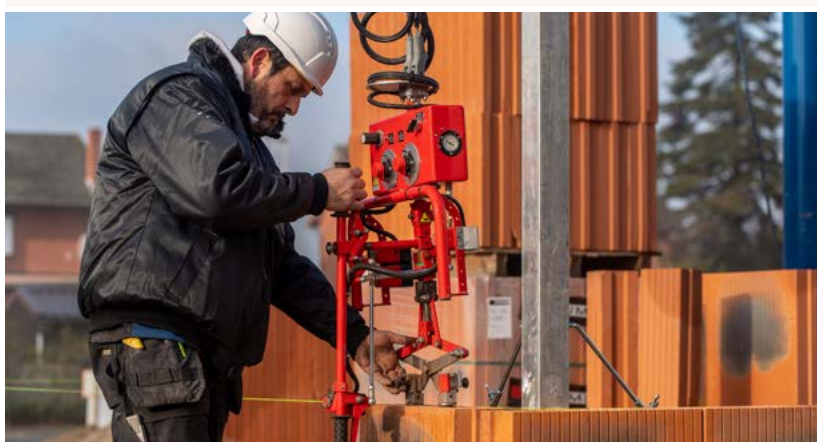

An annual inspection suffices

One inspection per year is sufficient to hire Robbie as a permanent worker on your site.
